A request which has been made by many parishioners, and made more frequently in recent times, is that dogs would not be permitted in parish cemeteries or on church grounds.

The social teaching of the Church, forms the framework for Laudato Si' as illustrated by Pope Francis when he states, "We have to realize that a true ecological approach always becomes a social approach; it must integrate questions of justice in debates on the environment, so as to hear both the cry of the earth and the cry of the poor." (LS, 49).

In caring for our common home, we are addressing poverty caused by climate change. The implementation of the social teaching of Laudato Si' can be understood as putting 'faith into action', the theme of the Reading from the Letter of St. James. He tells us that if good works do not go with faith, it is quite dead. The invitation to put our faith into practice is enlarged by Laudato Si' to include care of all created life, hence, it is challenging.

It requires an ecological spirituality, indeed an ecological conversion, first heralded by St John Paul II, and reiterated by Pope Francis, when he states, "the ecological crisis is also a summons to profound interior conversion ... Living our vocation to be protectors of God's handiwork is essential to a life of virtue; it is not an optional or a secondary aspect of our Christian experience" (LS, 217). (Bishop Martin Hayes)
